

Changing Your Mindset to Break Down Your Brick Walls

Presenter Emily Coffman Richardson

Stuck on finding a relative? What do genealogists do when we're stuck? We put that research away and start working on another relative, until the same thing happens again.

This presentation will help you pull out that previous work and change your mindset to look at your research differently. Come hear how to check the research you've done, how to best organize the results, and learn five mind-changing ideas to use when you find yourself facing a genealogical brick wall.

Emily is a professional genealogist and lecturer living in Denton, Texas. She is the secretary of the Texas State Genealogical Society, as well as District C representative. She teaches genealogy courses for the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at the University of North Texas. Emily is active on several local and state genealogical society boards, as well as the Daughters of the American Revolution. She has completed numerous nationally recognized genealogical courses, including ProGen 34, and recently served as coordinator for ProGen 49.
